Battery ingestion hazardous for kids

Submitted by Pawan Shukla on 2010, May 25 - 14:22

Two studies noted that there was a rise in kids swallowing batteries, both button and cylindrical. These batteries lodged in the esophagus must be removed within two hours to prevent serious injuries.

The researchers stated that manufacturers of these batteries must adhere to industry standards for making warning labels and creating child-resistant measures to secure the battery compartment on everyday household products that would cut down on battery ingestion.

Between 1985 and 2009, there was about a 6.7 fold increase in battery ingestion and 13 deaths occurred due to button batteries getting lodged in the airway or esophagus.

Litovitz and his team that conducted the study stated, "Parents and child care providers should be taught to prevent battery ingestions. Because 61.8 per cent of batteries that were ingested by children were obtained from products, manufacturers should redesign household products to secure the battery compartment, possibly requiring a tool to open it."

Add new comment
Intel Demonstrates Netbook Model with Dual-core Atom Processor
Standard Chartered IDR Issue
Maruti Suzuki Swift Celebrates its Overwhelming Five Years
NRB Bearings to Table to Consider Bonus Issue
FDA Approves Aurobindo Pharma’s Valacyclovir Hydrochloride Tablets

Syndicate

Sports News

Afridi named captain for Asia Cup, tour of England
Former Arsenal player asks Fabregas not to repeat his mistake of Braca move
Pakistan lawmakers direct PCB to lift cricketers ban
Yousuf firm on retirement despite Afridi’s request
Miandad hopeful about Pakistan’s cricket future

Web Advertising Market Investigated by OFT
Annual Profits of M&S Ahead 5% at £632m
Essex Garden Designs Awarded Gold at Chelsea Flower Show
During First Quarter Economy in Britain Increased 0.3%
Gold Plummets Against Dollar’s Strength

Dubai News

Colliers Says, 41,000 Residential Units to Enter Market by End of 2010
Dubai Realty Prices Rise 2%
Deal between Creditors and Dubai World May Finalize in two Weeks
Nomura recommends ‘buy’ on Dubai debt
Dubai to open remaining metro station in a few months

New Zealand
UK News
UAE News
WSJ: Microsoft to shake-up managerial positions at its Entertainment and Devices Division
Intel welcomes "Ultra Thin Era" with new low-voltage notebook processors
Twitter bans third-party advertisers from injecting ads into Twitter streams
Google begins the roll out of Android 2.2 'Froyo' to Nexus One handsets
Review score of 'Super Mario Galaxy 2' hits 98 percentage point average!

Waiting List in Dental Care Most at Morely's and Swan Dental Health Clinics, State Government report Revealed
PSTD Sufferers May Develop Diabetes
Gratitude ‘The Key’ for Stronger Relationships
First Radiation Death in Delhi Awakens Area to the Grave Issue
Alcohol Raises the Peril of Dying Due to Cancer

M&S's To Post 5% Jump in Full-year Profits
Cranswick Announces Robust Profits
UK Expecting Finances to Drop Government to Halt the Relentless Flow of Red Tape
CWU Ready for Battle Regarding Privatization

Battery ingestion hazardous for kids | TopNews Singapore